Dear Neighbor,

It is hard to believe that Thanksgiving is just two days away and Christmas 31 days. What a year this has been! I hope with all the craziness and pain 2020 has caused that you still have blessings to be thankful for.

This year has taught us that when this pandemic is over we should never take for granted again; having get togethers with our family, hugging our loved ones, each deep breath, teachers, visiting with neighbors, having lunch with a friend, and the list goes on ..... As they say "you never know what you have until you lose it."

This is not the year to get everything you want. This is the year to appreciate everything you have.

I want to wish you a most Happy and Blessed Thanksgiving Holiday to you and your family.

Yours in Service,

Rich

Missouri lawmakers cancel COVID-19 special session after members contract virus

Missouri lawmakers were set to hold a special hearing this week on coronavirus-related policies and spending. However, that session was postponed after multiple state House members and staff contracted the disease, the Republican majority floor leader said.

The announcement came less than a week after state Republicans and Gov. Mike Parson attended a retreat where they were photographed not wearing masks. It was not immediately clear if the meetings were linked to the infections.

State Sen. Caleb Rowden, the majority floor leader, tweeted Monday that the special session scheduled for Nov. 19 and Nov. 20 would be put on hold until after the Thanksgiving break, because of "a number of positive COVID-19 cases among members and staff."

Missouri governor says no mask mandate, but will extend State of Emergency

JEFFERSON CITY, MO (KCTV) -- Missouri's top government officials will not issue a mask mandate, Gov. Mike Parson said Thursday morning while addressing various coronavirus issues facing the state.

The governor stressed the importance of safety measures to stem the tide of rising COVID-19 cases across the state, but said those measures fall on personal responsibility of the individual. He said he is against mandates, but personally thinks people should choose to wear a mask.

The governor also announced he is extending Missouri's State of Emergency through next March. That declaration allows Missouri certain resource options to fight the pandemic, which is growing at a rapid pace.

SUPREME COURT HEARS CASE CHALLENGING ANTI-LABOR LAW

The Missouri Supreme Court on Nov. 16 heard arguments in a case that seeks to invalidate the remaining portions anti-union law that the state high court partially struck down earlier this year. A lower court has placed the entire law on hold while litigation remains pending.

The Republican-controlled General Assembly enacted House Bill 1413 in 2018 and then-Gov. Eric Greitens signed it into law. The law contains various provisions designed to make it harder for public sector labor unions to operate, including prohibiting government agencies from withholding union dues from workers' paychecks, creating new hurdles to forming public sector bargaining units, requiring unions to be recertified every three years and subjecting government workers to immediate termination for picketing, including while off duty.

The Supreme Court on March 31 unanimously struck down that final provision as unconstitutionally overbroad in violation of public workers' free speech rights. That lawsuit, Karney v. Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations, didn't challenge the remainder of HB 1413.

In the current case before the high court, Missouri National Education Association v. Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations, the plaintiffs argue the law infringes on collective bargaining rights protected by the Missouri Constitution and also violates union members' constitutional rights of free speech and association. In addition, they allege the law's restrictions don't apply equally to all public sector labor unions by exempting those representing police and other emergency responders. The Supreme Court will issue a ruling in the case at a later date.

FEDERAL JUDGE ORDERS REFORM OF PAROLE REVOCATIONS

A federal judge on Nov. 12 ruled various practices and procedures related to parole revocation hearings in Missouri are unconstitutional and ordered the state Department of Corrections to implement a long list of reforms, including ensuring parolees have an attorney, mandating that evidence against them be shared at least five days in advance of a revocation hearing and requiring such hearings to be conducted in a timely manner.

Ruling in a class-action lawsuit filed against the corrections department three years ago, U.S. District Judge Stephen Bough said the department intentionally failed to provide attorneys to parolees who couldn't afford one and routinely refused to disclose evidence against a parolee until the time of the revocation hearing, among other problems.

The MacArthur Justice Center, which brought the case on behalf of Missouri parolees, argued that the state's unconstitutional practices resulted in many offenders being thrown back into prison without having a legitimate opportunity to refute the evidence against them. The center alleged that parolees routinely aren't told they have a right to counsel and often are pressured into waiving their right to a hearing.

In his 55-page order, Bough said he is retaining jurisdiction over the case to ensure the department begins implementing the required reforms, a move that allows him to more quickly intervene if the agency fails to do so. The case is Gasca v. Precythe.

Real ID Update

Real ID compliant drivers and nondrivers licenses are now available with proper documentation. Please note that the Federal government requires a copy of this documentation to be kept for several years. You can go to the DMV and request a replacement for your current license with the Real ID for a $5 processing fee. If you renew your license at the time of the request you will be charged the renewal fee. You need a RealID compliant Identification Card to board an airplane and enter federal buildings;

Missouri issued Identification Cards (including drivers' licenses) will be accepted in lieu of Real ID until October 1, 2021. Some military bases require individuals to present a Real ID. For more information about RealID, go to dor.mo.gov/drivers/real-id-information/.

According to the federal Real ID Act, states must retain paper copies of source documents for a minimum of 7 years, and images/microfiche of source documents for at least 10 years, after which point they are to be irretrievably destroyed. Missouri statute complies with this requirement and permits the Department of Revenue to keep these documents within a system not connected to the internet or accessible by any other state or the federal government.

When you get a Real ID, please note that the state is required to keep a digital copy of your data for ten years. If you are using a document with private information for identification, like a bank statement, I believe you can redact that information before they scan it.
